JAPANESE CONTINUE TO REINFORCE TROOPS ON JEHOL BORDERS

ZINGARA'S INSANITY PLEA DEFEATED

Charge Of Attempted Murder.

WOULD-BE ASSASSIN OF MR. ROOSEVELT.

(Reuter's Special Service.)

Miami, Florida, Yesterday. Zingara, the Italian would-be assassin of President-Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, who seriously wounded Mayor Cermak of Chicago when he shot at America's next President, has been declared mentally fit by doctors here, and will be formally charged with the attempted murder of Mr. Roosevelt and five others to-morrow.

In spite of the assailant's defiant outburst when arraigned before the Criminal Court on Friday, and which was reiterated to-day, the State has decided to brief three prominent lawyers to defend him.

Nonchalant and unshackled Zingara appeared in the Criminal Court to-day, but the formal arraignment has been postponed until to-morrow. Despite the prisoner's violent declaration that he does not want assistance, the Judge announced the appointment of three lawyers to represent him.

Twenty Deputy-Sheriffs were stationed in the crowded courtroom for fear of disturbances, but everything passed off quietly.

The leading counsel for the defence has announced that he will demand a sanity test for Zingara.

Miami, Later.

After examining Zingara, the prison doctor said that there was no evidence of mental aberration, but the prisoner was undoubtedly suffering from acute stomach trouble.

CASH SHORTAGE IN MICHIGAN

State Of Emergency Declared.

SMALL WITHDRAWALS BY DEPOSITORS.

(Reuter's Special Service.)

Lansing, Michigan,

Yesterday.

The State Senate has passed a resolution declaring a state of emergency and empowering Governor Comstock to extend the banking moratorium to regulate the withdrawal of funds.

The resolution has been forwarded to the State House of Representatives.

However, only $4,610,000 of the $30,000,000 made available for withdrawal at the banks has so far been required to meet the demands of depositors.

Ford's Obstacle

More than 600 banks are affected by the 8-day moratorium, which is rendering immobile $34,000,000. The crisis was precipitated by a run on the Union Guardian Trust Company, of which Mr. Henry Ford, Mr. Edsel Ford and Mr. W. O. Bridges, maker of the Ford car bodies, are directors.

Mr. Henry Ford, on whom criticism has been showered by the Governor of Michigan, has refused to submit in full the sum of $7,000,000 which the bank holds to his account. His refusal is said to have caused a breakdown in the negotiations for the alleviation of the situation.

EXTREMELY GRAVE SITUATION

"CHINA DETERMINED TO RESIST"

LONDON AND NEW YORK REACTION TO LEAGUE REPORT

PEIPING, YESTERDAY. JAPANESE TROOP MOVEMENTS ARE CONTINUING IN THE DIRECTION OF JEHOL WHERE THE SITUATION HAS BECOME EXTREMELY GRAVE. ACCORDING TO CHINESE REPORTS RECEIVED HERE.

It is stated that another brigade has arrived in Chinchow from the direction of Mukden, while yesterday one thousand Japanese troops passed through Tushan en route to Tungliao to reinforce the Sixth Division there.

Japanese sources here report that yesterday evening the Committee of the Peiping Japanese Residents' Association suddenly convened a meeting to consider the situation and decided to get prepared for emergencies. — Reuter.

Chinese Plans For Jehol Defence.

LEADERS GREETED WITH ENTHUSIASM.

Jehol City, Yesterday. Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, Mr. T. V. Soong, Minister of Finance, and General Chang Tso-hsian are here to "complete plans to resist the continued invasion of the Province by the Japanese forces."

They have been received with the greatest enthusiasm and the city is flagged in their honour. Civil and military leaders have come from all parts of the Province to greet them.

Mr. Soong, speaking at a mass meeting, reiterated China's determination to resist the Japanese invasion of Jehol. — Reuter.

"Moral Sentence" On Japan.

REACTION IN NEW YORK.

Washington, Yesterday.

The New York Times states that the British Charge d'Affaires discussed the Committee of Nineteen's report with the Assistant-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, here. The nature of the conversation was not disclosed.

The paper, in an editorial, describes the Report as a "moral sentence" which the League neither desires nor means to enforce against Japan, and which has widened the door of conciliation. — Reuter.

EAST LANCASHIRES ON THE NEURALIA.

(Reuter's Special Service.)

Shanghai, Yesterday. The First Batt. East Lancashire Regiment left here to-day at 6 a.m. for Hong Kong aboard the transport ship Neuralia. They are en route to Catterick.

The East Lancashire troops are being relieved in Shanghai by a battalion of their own Regiment, and it is the first time in 62 years that the two battalions have met. The occasion was celebrated by a dinner in Shanghai on February 14.

A Temperate, Just Report.

"THE TIMES" COMMENTS ON LEAGUE ACTION.

London, Yesterday.

"The Times," in an editorial characterises the Committee of Nineteen's Report as temperate, just and well-considered, and one which will stand on record as a deliberate opinion reached by the nations composing the League, on a dispute of major importance.

"If a wholly new situation is created by violent action on the part of either party, it is conceivable that the League Council may have to later reconsider the whole position.

"The report recommends a wide autonomy of the sort which is obviously intended to reserve to Japan more rights than she enjoyed under the old dispensation to which it is not proposed to revert," The Times continues.

"If the League Assembly adopts the Report, as it undoubtedly will, the League members will be expected to abstain from any act which might prejudice and delay the carrying out of its recommendations, and to continue not to recognise the present regime either de jure or de facto.

"While it is unnecessary for all the States concerned to tie themselves down to any particular policy for all time, it is most certainly advisable to take the League's report as the starting point and pursue the same policy which will only modify common consent." The Times adds. — Reuter.

Canton Students Urge Resistance.

REGAINING LOST TERRITORIES.

Centon, Yesterday.

Since Nanking has never mentioned a word regarding the recovery of lost territories, the Canton Students' Alliance cabled yesterday to the Central authorities urging the immediate mobilisation of troops to safeguard Jehol and to regain territories occupied by the Japanese.

Regrettably that Nanking would sever diplomatic relations with Japan only in case the latter attacks Jehol, the telegram enquired whether Manchuria will be abandoned if the Japanese do not attack Jehol.

Therefore the telegram stated that the Alliance is supporting the policy.

STUNTING AEROPLANE CRASHES

Two Famous Pilots Killed.

"FLYING CIRCUS" TRAGEDY IN SOUTH AFRICA

(Reuter's Special Service.) Capetown, Yesterday.

Two well-known British airmen were killed here to-day, when the plane in which they were stunting at a height of 3,000 feet crashed. The pilots were Captain Lawson and Captain E. Ross, both of whom were members of Sir Alan Cobham's "Flying Circus" which was touring South Africa.

The tragedy is all the more poignant in view of the fact that Captain Lawson was married only eight days ago to a girl whom he took up as a passenger at Matitzburg.

Details of the disaster are vague, but eye-witnesses state that the machine appeared to get into difficulties after a number of intricate "stunts" at a great height.

R.A.F. PILOTS TO FLY HOME

A New Engine For Return Flight.

TOURING SOUTH AFRICA.

(Reuter's Special Service.)

Capetown, Yesterday.

Squadron-Leader Gayford and Flight-Lieutenant Nichollet, the R.A.F. pilots who recently recaptured the world's long-distance air record for Britain with their flight of 6,340 miles, will spend some time touring South Africa while awaiting the receipt of a new engine for their Fairey Napier machine.

When their machine is again ready for the air, they will attempt a return flight.

During their tour, they will visit Kimberley, Bloemfontein, Johannesburg, and probably Durban, in order to "show the British flag."

Awards For Flight.

London, Later.

H. M. the King has approved the award of the Royal Air Force Cross to Squadron-Leader Gayford, an a bar to the Royal Air Force Cross to Flight-Lieutenant Nichollet, in recognition of their record non-stop flight from Cranwell, England to Walvis Bay, South Africa. — Reuter.

WHITE STAR LINER'S LAST VOYAGE.

Master Mariner As Trimmer.

(Reuter's Special Service.)

London, Yesterday.

With an unemployed Master Mariner as a trimmer among her crew of 75 ex-naval men, the former White Star liner Baltic left the Mersey on her last voyage.

She is bound for Osaka where she will be broken up.

The Baltic is owned by the Ocean Steam Navigation Company (White Star Line) and her tonnage is 23,834. She was built in 1904 by Messrs. Harland and Wolff, Ltd., and is a four-masted steel twin screw ship.

BALLADING BELOW THE EQUATOR

CONCERT SINGER'S AFRICAN TOUR

MALAY WEDDINGS AND DIAMOND MINES

By RITA BELL

Rita Bell, the singer who has been entertaining at the Peninsula Hotel, made this interesting South African journey not so long ago in concert engagements.

CAPE TOWN! The first lap of my African tour and the last place I had ever dreamed my voice would take me!

A month earlier in London, while broadcasting for the British Broadcasting Company, the African Theatres Limited representative induced me to take a prolonged tour for his company's circuit. He had traced the route on his office map, down around Spain, through the Canary Islands and Maderia, southward over the bumpy equator, along the east coast—the gold coast of Africa—and around the tip of the peninsula to Cape Town. Within two weeks, I found myself at the Cape.

Cape Town is a city of infinite charm. Palm-edged streets; fine hotels; boasting one of the world's most wonderful bathing beaches; spectacular Table mountain, giving this port its incomparable skyline, and its beautiful harbour. There is an air of cosmopolitanism, because its citizens have come from all corners of the globe—irresistible to a wide-eyed American trouper on her first "trip" to Africa.

It had never occurred to me that the South Africans and Rhodesians should crave theatrical entertainment. I had a hazy idea of a big country people by blocks and fat from civilised. I was soon to find out that I had been engaged to sing and play for audiences of highly cultured English and Boers, who knew what they wanted and why.

* * *

Phyllis Nelson Terry had captivated them, as had the English music hall favourites, Marie Lloyd, George Robey, Arthur Bousfield, and our own Guy Bates Post.

My opening performance, however, was scheduled to take place in Durban, another week by water away.

Durban reminded me of San Diego. Sunny, tropical, Spanish stuccoed building and palms everywhere. No taxis, but ebony muscled rickshaw boys, trotting silently along the streets, adorned with a fed dozen bead bracelets on arms and legs; wearing a choice bunch of hyena tails and varicoloured feathers in their hats. With two viciously curved horns projecting from both temples, they presented a fiercely weird appearance.

But underneath this forbidding exterior they wore a happy countenance; always laughing and wise-cracking. On expression, I heard so often that I asked for a translation, was a phrase that sounded like "Um baiba coama unass." This was given with a click of the tongue to finish, and meant, literally translated, "Your father is a mother," or as we would say, "So's your old man." Even Kaffirs must have their slang.

* * *

In Durban I had my first glimpse of what the well dressed black woman wears. "Rings on her fingers and bolts on her toes" are not enough! She also wears small, carved wooden drums, brightly painted and stretched.

The fuses were lit. The booming began! One thunderous explosion on the heels of another! A succession of booms lasting but three minutes, yet throwing up clouds of diamond dust. Then out came the ant-village of native labourers who had scattered to places of safety. They were all bent on loading the long chains of cars, known as "Kokopans," with this broken rock and then up the incline to the washing plant, to be further crushed, cleaned and eliminated.

We watched the gyratory crusher and pulsator machines which clean the rock and transfer it to oiled belts to be put through its final process of being carried by flowing water over leather rollers coated with heavy grease to which the diamond adheres, while the valueless rock rolls on. These belts are scraped automatically and the stones are heated to remove the grease. Hand sorting follows by experts who classify the stones as to general weight and grade.

The largest single stone ever found at this Premier mine weighed 3028 carats and was purchased by the government for King Edward VII. This is one stone Peggy Joyce missed. The average find per day amounts to about $200,000 worth.

The rickshaw boys have their own "tin pan alley" where they gather at rickshaw stand corner awaiting customers and furnishing "hot" music from their crudely made native instruments.

The rickshaw boys have their own "tin pan alley" where they gather at rickshaw stand corner awaiting customers and furnishing "hot" music from their crudely made native instruments.

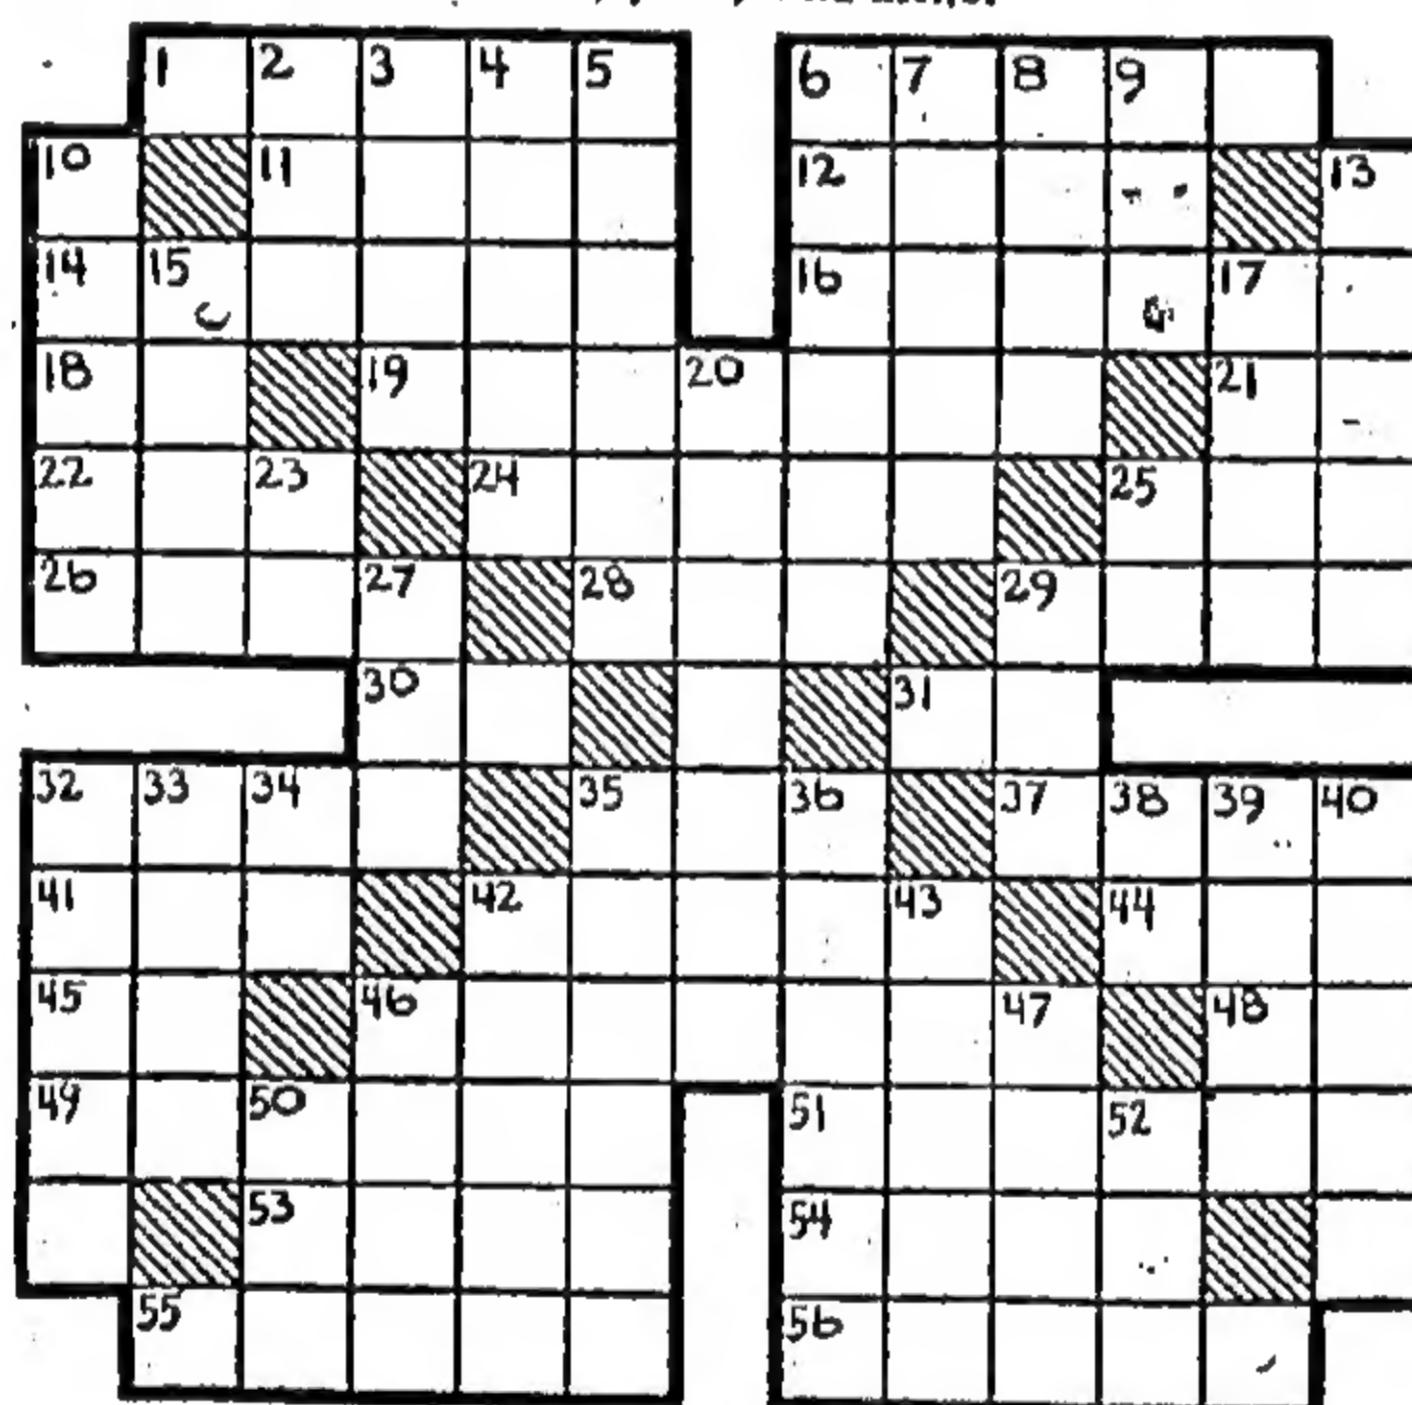

The little Dutch-African city of Bloemfontein came next in my itinerary. But this time I was getting accustomed to the South African habit of waking at 6 a.m. for tea. I am afraid that the Boer audiences here didn't get all of the Iles in my American pianolos, but it was too late to re-learn them in Dutch.

And then on to Kimberly—a magic city. The home of the world's largest supply of engagement rings. Dust everywhere. I was blinded by dust and not diamond dust either. Dry and parched is this little city, once the mecca of all fortune hunters and still drawing them.

Now for some suggestions for making use of the applied ducklings. They will form a delightful border for nursery curtains of butcher-blue cane-mat-cloth or Ilion, while a cushion-cover trimmed to match will look jolly on the window seat. And what about nipping a duckling in each corner of the nursery tablecloth? Nanny's armchair, too, could have a chairback decorated with the friendly little fella. And they would make a fascinating decoration for the cotquin in the night nursery.

"Red Pepper" Hats For Spring

Navy Blue Suits For Town Wear

NEW SILK EFFECTS

London. SPICY shades are coming in the Spring. The mournful greys and Victorian violets of winter designs will be lost with the season. And for the Spring—the warmth and aromas of spices.

Nutmeg and cinnamon will be used for tweed and country cloths. A new orange-red shade, called carrot, will be seen a lot in jumpers.

But the warmest touch of all will be the "red pepper" hats. These demure little hats, in clear, glistening red, will be worn tilted over the forehead towards one eye.

A novel idea conceived by milliners, which is being saved for spring wear, is the use of a tassel on the crown of a hat, similar to that of an Arab's fez.

Of course there will be other colours, on a different note, that will ring out the winter and welcome the spring. —Reuter.

There is Nightingale and Willow-warbler browns, Canary and Hammer yellow, Bluebird blue, Lovebird green, Robin and Shrike reds and Dover and Wagtail greys.

For town wear, navy blue will be almost uniform. Some of the navy suits will have short coats linked in front like a man's dinner jacket. Others, less severe, will be trimmed with grey fur fur.

A new silky material has appeared—called Forked Lightning. The ground work is the blue-black of a thunder sky and it is over-patterned with jagged white lines, like the forked lightning of a summer night.

Woolens this year will be smooth and soft as lamb's wool. A favourite of one designer is "kitten ear," a downy, smoky grey material.

Buttons made of unpolished oak in the exact shape of collars is the newest ghoulish trick of fashion. —Reuter.

On Bringing Up Children

Obedient Child Not Successful.

London. THE obedient child who plays quietly and does exactly as "Mummy" and "Daddy" tells him to do, will not be much of a success in life.

At least that is the opinion of Dr. J. R. Rees, deputy director of the Institute of Medical Psychology. He advises parents to:

Encourage curiously in children.

Allow them to get dirty.

Let them be destructive.

Encourage them to take risks and to be adventurous.

"Parents as a whole," he said, "make their children far too safe. A child should never be encouraged to keep itself safe. It should be encouraged to be adventurous and take risks."

"The nice, neat, perfect home where children are made to play nicely with their toys without getting dirty is of no use to the normal child."

"A child must have a chance to explore and to express its ideas. Playing and experimenting with sand and mud and messy things satisfies a child, and all children should be given facilities for it."

—Reuter.

FAVOURITES FOR DERBY AND CHAMPIONS BEATEN INTO PLACES

COO COO BAY AND DIANA BAY LOSE

COSSACK'S BEAUTY AND SADKO RESPONSIBLE

BIG DIVIDENDS FROM SURPRISES

SHANGHAI JOCKEYS JUST HOLD THEIR OWN AGAINST LOCALS.

SENSATIONAL RESULTS AND EXCEPTIONALLY HIGH DIVIDENDS FEATURED THE OPENING DAY OF THE 1933 ANNUAL RACE MEETING AT THE VALLEY YESTERDAY.

A fairly large crowd witnessed the defeat of the Derby favourite, Coo Coo Bay, by Cossack's Beauty; the success of Trenthbridge, the second favourite; the eclipse of Diana Bay, undefeated champion, by Sadko in record time; the failure of Portia, a favourite for the Rooty Hill Derby, to start in the Sydney Maidens; and last, but not least, the popular victory of that old favourite, Sitting Bull.

The first sensation of the day was provided when it was proclaimed that King Salmon, red-hot favourite for the Valley Stakes, would not face the starter. The pony cracked up badly on the eve of the race with an attack of colic.

The Shanghai jockeys did not have matters all their own way. Mr. "Leo" Frost, the Colony champion, following closely in Mr. A. F. Clark's footsteps with three wins. Only an additional second place gave the visitor the honour of leading the jockeys' list.

Mr. D. S. Li, the Shanghai rider, had the satisfaction of bringing Night Star home to pay $84 for a win — the highest dividend of the day. Cossack's Beauty paid $81, while Sadko returned $51.60 for win and Flying Boy ($67.08) and Jungle Jim ($60.70) paid very satisfactory place dividends.

THE GOATS WITHDRAWAL. With the news of King Salmon's withdrawal from the Valley it came as a surprise to see The Goat entered for the Wong Nel-Chong Stakes. Had he been entered for the Valley he would probably have won — he was second favourite on Friday night. Of course, he had to make up quite a lot of leeway on Jack O'Lantern after a poor start. His win was the first of Mr. A. F. Clark's successes.

The Maidens provided the first sensation of the meeting. Coo Coo Bay, considered to be a certain winner over any distance, was beaten by Cossack's Beauty over six furlongs. Mr. Hill did not get away to a good start and was unable to let his mount through until it was too late.

Cossack's Beauty, splendidly ridden by Mr. "Johnny" Heard, paid out $81 for his win, so engrossed were the public on Mr. Dunbar's entry.

Valley Hall was responsible for the first dead-heat. Mr. D. S. Li bringing him through with a fine burst at the finish to get on level terms with Banjolina which led throughout.

H. E. the Governor, accompanied by Lady Peel, arrived in time to see Portia's failure to start in the Sydney maidens and Night Star's triumph in a field of fourteen. The Star stable entry paid $84 for a win — the highest dividend of the day. Mr. Rafeek's City of Brisbane was two lengths behind Mr. D. S. Li's mount.

Mr. Frost rode a grand race to bring Sitting Bull in ahead of Guy Crusader, which was ridden perfectly by Mr. Y. T. Fung. The latter, riding at top weight, kept the lead just as long as he could, and was only beaten over the last hundred yards.

The Valley Stakes witnessed the eclipse of Black Velvet. Swale bursting through the big field of twenty starters to assume a commanding position which Mr. A. F. Clark never relinquished, though Hey Tor and Flying Boy were going well at the finish.

Trenthbridge, ridden by Mr. V. V. Needa, never looked like being overtaken in the Trial Plate when he led the field of seven throughout. Poker Face and Solar Star were clearly out-classed by the potential Derby winner, whose success on the day of the favourite's failure makes the classic all the more interesting.

Cyclamen Bay just managed to dead-heat with Hetman in the

for Speed

The all-important factor in modern lawn tennis is speed and yet more speed. Other things being equal the man with that extra speed wins the match.

The new Spalding laminated multi-ply rackets are the fastest and most powerful ever produced. They can be strung to the highest possible tension without risk of warping thus giving tremendous pace to the ball as it leaves the racket.

The Spalding range of rackets for 1933 comprises seventeen attractive models at prices to suit all purses.

Gibbs Dentifrice keeps teeth safe and sound

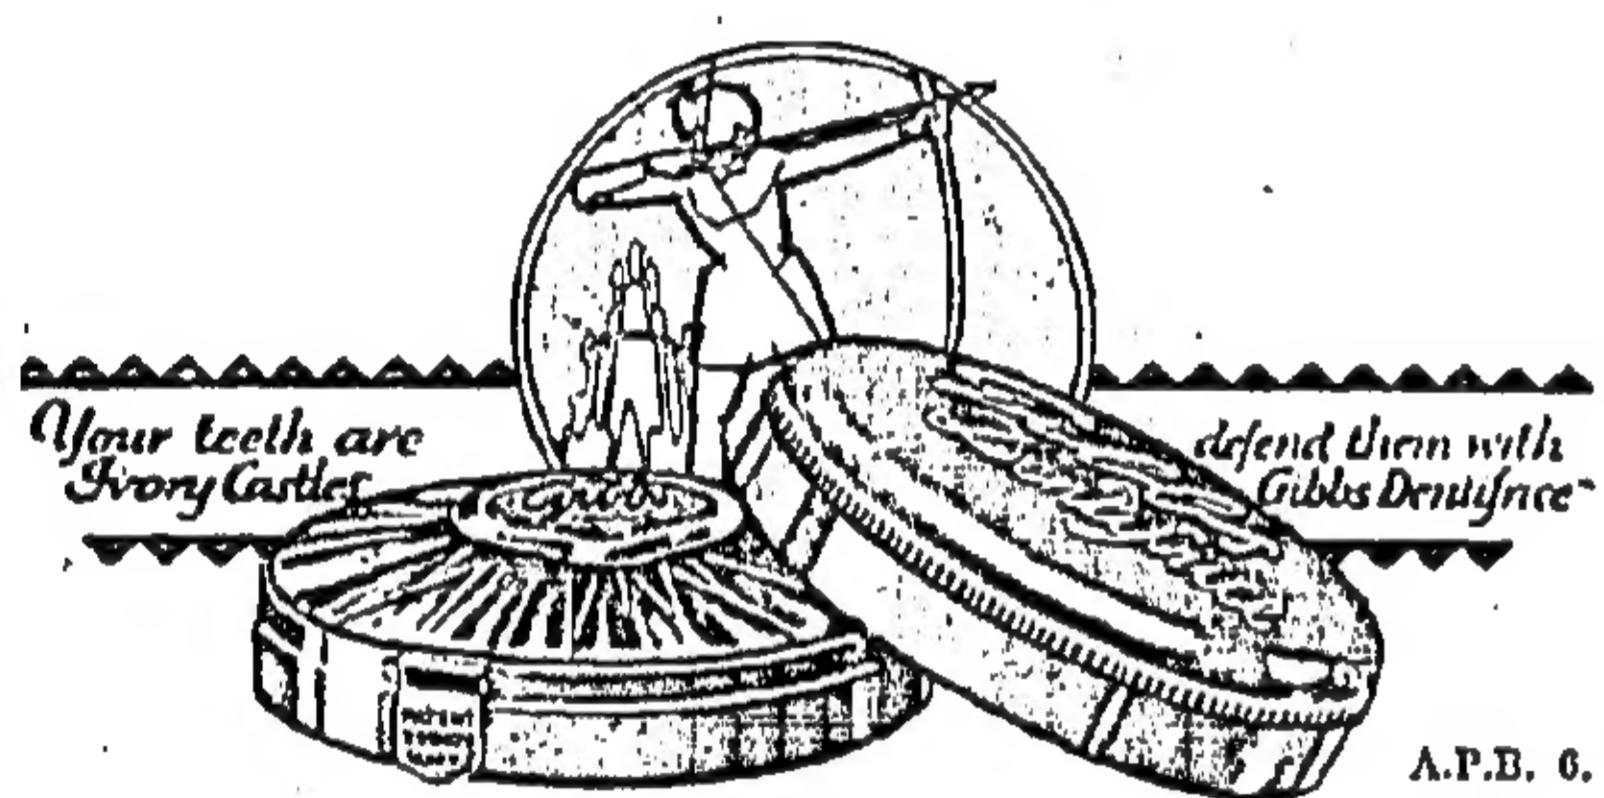

Men and women with perfect, beautiful teeth realize how wise Mother was to teach them about Gibbs Dentifrice in Nursery Days.

Then, as now, they loved the clean refreshing taste of Gibbs Dentifrice.

Into every crevice and interstice of the teeth, the flood of fragrant antiseptic foam penetrates — to clean away everything that could cause decay. Into corners no toothbrush could reach, Gibbs Dentifrice goes — cleaning safely, surely. And the natural pearly lustre of the teeth is brought out by the gentle polishing agent that never scratches, not even at the danger line where teeth meet gums. For men, for women, for children — Gibbs Dentifrice is safe, sure, wholesome. Besides it's so handy. Easily packed, tidy — never spills. Buy your case to-day.

BALLADING BELOW THE EQUATOR

CONCERT SINGER'S AFRICAN TOUR

There are no lawns or trees, unless growth under protest, for this soil harbors diamonds, not roots. The paradox of it is the striking for a gay, social life, with Kimberley's millionaires, first families, sons at Oxford, and brilliant race meets.

I was warned about my next move up to Johannesburg—the city of gold, 6400 feet above sea level and whose altitude would "positively" make vocal trouble for any singer! Here is miniature Chicago, often called the wickedest city in the world. Gay, modern, sporty to the last word, with smart country, golf, and turf clubs; cabarets and racers flourish; several legitimate theatres as well as dozens of cinema palaces prosper. As I had a few days before opening, I went to see "Tip Toes," running at the Empire, with an English-African cast.

Friday night is "swank" night, when all of the elite occupy the downstairs and boxes, in dinner clothes. The prices for modern French or English clothes in Africa are staggering. You see the smartest of attire on such occasions. The same crowds are augmented later by more of the city's "high-brows" at the Carlton hotel for dancing. It is hard to believe that but a hundred miles or so from this centre of luxury and modern city life can be seen the spear of the wild hyena and on a still night can be heard the roar of a not too distant lion!

I played several weeks in and near Jo'burg, as they call it, and grew to love its fun-loving public and indulgent hosts.

The big event for a stranger is to see the tribal Kaffir dances given by the native workers at the various gold mine compounds. On a dry, sun-baked arena we saw the frenzied, primeval rites of the black man. Loins girded with goat skins, anklets of ox tails, beads everywhere, off-setting gleaming toros in the hot midday sun. Now and then some ambitious sheik, striving to look like his white brother, carried a discarded umbrella or wore automobile goggles. One hung a padlock around his neck, while still another dispensed with great dignity a cast off alarm clock.

A few brightly-striped sweaters at the Kaffir's coveted attire lent additional colour to this scene. The peppy cheer leader, wearing little more than a grin, warms the party.

elants into hectic tempo of rhythm and chant. At a blow of his whistle now formation and steps are executed, always in perfect unison; beating the duty ground with hardened, calloused feet. The original Black Bottom!

This group, when exhausted, is succeeded by another tribe, which does its stuff to the accompaniment of tom tom wooden clappers, while native police keep order among the enthusiastic onlookers. One of these policemen is 7 feet tall and has only one arm, but the people scatter at his voice.

A native witch-doctor at our feet opened a curious snuff box dangling from his neck, inhaled a pinch of its gunpowder contents, shook some shell-like bones and mumbled a few syllables. He looked exceedingly and shook his head.

We were told that he had "dealt a fatal hand."

But the Zambesi and Victoria falls, farther north, beckoned me onward I decided I would not turn southward until I had retraced a few of old Trader Horn's steps, so on to Northern Rhodesia!

At each stop along the veldt we were offered wooden, carved dolls, hidden beads and native handwork by black children in their birthday clothes. Hyenas, occasional jackals, eagle-antelope and families of monkeys were glimpsed across the hot plains.

As we neared the falls, it got hotter and hotter. Imagine Niagara doubled in volume, height and length, and you have Victoria falls. I tramped in oilskins through the sublime "rain forest" at its top rim, treading on frail tropical orchids and other rare flora, always half hidden by the permanent fog.

Up the placid Zambesi, although infested with man-eating crocodiles, went our party in a launch to have dinner at the Ritz-Carlton on the tiny palm-covered island a few miles above.

A week later, loaded with gifts, curios and skins, I reached Cape Town again, over 2000 miles south on the last lap of my tour.

Here I witnessed a strange Malay wedding, where the bridegroom goes to the church for the ceremony alone and the bride is paraded for a week before being delivered to the spouse. Viewing the ceremonial sword dance, full of religious significance was one of the highlights of my Cape Town engagement.

We were ushered, this warm Sunday evening, into a close, darkened room in the Malay quarter. Candle faintly illuminated the room.

At one end, a lavish altar was erected, bearing Arabic banners, tinsel and rows and rows of swords, of all lengths and descriptions. Incense rose from urns of hot coals. Six young Asiatics began massaging the tom toms before them. No air was permitted in the room, for fear a draft would break the sensitive drumheads.

The chanting began. The leader read from the Koran in Arabic. The old and young men heartily wailed the same dirges to the rhythmic beating of the tom toms, as a boy slowly rose and began the terrible dance of lances, stabbing himself at each beat of the drum.

Then another took the floor. The music grew louder and faster as he drew a sharp, curved sword over the flame and then passed it among us to test its razor-like blade. With this he slashed at his forearm, waist and neck, then he took a sharp, stiletto-like sword, passing it through his ears, cheeks, shoulders, under arm, always exhibiting to us that it never drew blood!

After more of this self-torture, the old leader, inspired to action by the preceding acts of religious fervor, clutched deadly-looking weapon, and with closed eyes proceeded to "get hot," bringing it with all force in contact with his bared abdomen, ankles and Adams apple. He wound up the performance by wildly treading on the sword's upturned blade.

Still another thrill for me was that I was the first American girl to use the great broadcasting station of the South African Theatres at Cape Town.

The steamer bound for Engeland had arrived and was taking on passengers. Among them was a very happy, though a bit weary American "chanteuse," loaded with Grenay zebra hides, huge leopard-skins, hyena, a dozen blue monkeys, a python and puff adder skin, a large carcass rug of weird African elvers, a collection of sable antelope horns, native musical instruments, carved stools, ostrich feathers, not to mention the rare gift of a set of small hook-like bones from the shoulder embody rare power for good luck.

I was unwilling to leave this fascinating country to return to realities again. Shortly afterwards, I was to remembrance with an old, old traveller, who knew the African veldt before I was born. Trader Horn paid a visit to New York and I was commissioned to interview him for my forthcoming assignment to the Johannesburg Star. We talked of cabbages, kings, Zulus and prima donnas.

BRIDGE NOTES

NEEDLESS FINESSING

(By ELY CULBERTSON)

As Bridge players progress in their skill, they learn that additional tricks may frequently be made due to the position of adverse held honours. Thus, if one player holds Ace-Queen of a suit and lends from the other hand toward that combination and plays the Queen to the first trick, he will win 2 tricks in the suit whenever the King is held by the opponent at his right. Frequently, this play is essential to success. While it has only one chance in two of winning, unless the bidding has disclosed the probable possession of the adverse honour, to lend the Ace and then the Queen would reduce the chance of winning 2 tricks with this combination nearly to zero, as it would be rare indeed to find the King a Singleton in one of the opponents' hands. If a finesse is necessary, it should be taken, but the play of the hand should be so planned as to avoid it if at all possible. One method of avoiding the finesse is to compel a chosen opponent to lead the suit for you, as the hand-to-hand discloses.

Both sides vulnerable.

South had reached a contract of six hearts which, while not justified by the possession of honour-tricks, found its excuse in the extremely favourable distribution.

West opened the diamond and South won with the Ace. If the two trumps adversely held were not both in either the East or West hand, South could see his contract laid down. He, therefore, led the Ace of hearts, only to receive the unwelcome news that East had a winning trump left. South therefore, can lose no other tricks. He could make his contract if he found the spade King in the West hand, but this play would give him only one chance in two of winning. He had another line of play that increased the chances tremendously. His next play was to lead a small club winning with the King in Dummy. A diamond was then led from Dummy and trumped in the closed hand. Now South laid down the Ace of clubs and followed with a small club which was trumped in Dummy. Dummy's last diamond was led, trumped in the closed hand, and the Queen of clubs led, upon which East was forced to follow suit. Actually, it made no difference if he had a fourth club or not. South now led a trump and East was forced to win. To lead a diamond would permit South to discard his losing spade, while to lead the spade presented South with 2 tricks in spades. Whichever course East selected, the contract was assured.

Card Reading and Contract Making.

Card reading is one of the most fascinating features of the game of Contract Bridge. To be able to determine after a few rounds of play the distribution of the suits in the hands of your opponents is frequently of almost incalculable value in the making of a contract. The good player almost subconsciously early acquires the habit of mentally noting each card that is played and drawing inferences from it that will aid him in placing not only the key cards of the suit, but the entire distribution of a suit around the table. Sometimes this knowledge is of little value, but, even if it is of no importance on a particular deal, to make it a practice to note the distribution of the suits is good play, because you never can tell when a hand will turn up in which this knowledge is essential to the making of your contract.

A hand, played by Mr. Louis R. Ayres of Philadelphia, is one in which an ambitious contract of six spades was only fulfilled because Mr. Ayres, who held the South hand, was able to utilize the elimination play through his knowledge of the distribution of the suits.

Neither side vulnerable.

1—South, with 5 honour-tricks is not unduly optimistic in making a Slam try.

2—North's bid for a Slam is not fully justified. His hand contains, it is true, magnificent trump support, but has in all only 1½ honour-tricks. The void in diamonds may mean only a duplication of values and the declarer may be compelled to helplessly watch his opponents take in 2 or 3 tricks before surrendering the lead.

West opened the Queen of hearts, and Mr. Ayres won with the King. He then led a diamond, which was trumped in Dummy. He returned to his own hand with a trump and repeated this process until his hand was void of diamonds and the adverse trumps had been picked up. Now, to guard against the possibility that West had made an unsound Overcall bid, he led another round of hearts, upon which East discarded a diamond. South's chance of making the contract depended upon East holding five clubs; thereto Mr. Ayres now laid down the Ace and King of clubs and followed with the deuce. West was the only trick for East and West, as East's hand was now void of everything but diamonds and clubs, and the lead of either would permit a discard in one hand and a ruff in the other.

Conciliation Still Possible.

EVENTS during the past few days have added to the uneasiness that the crisis is near at hand. The protracted negotiations at Geneva have at last produced a definite result in the form of the report of the Committee of Nineteen which the League Assembly will be asked to accept on Friday. Definite action by the League will force an expression of policy from Tokio and it is significant that the Japanese ultimatum was delivered yesterday demanding the Chinese evacuation of Kauh. The Japanese invasion of Jehol, if it takes place at all, will be commenced within the next few days. It is thought in many quarters that Japan may withdraw her troops from Jehol borders if she receives concessions in Manchuria. Substantiation of this theory is seen in the more conciliatory attitude manifested by the Japanese delegates at Geneva and it would seem that the danger of a fresh outbreak of hostilities in the North may be averted by diplomatic bargaining. At this stage any prophecy of Japanese intentions is purely conjecture and it is not improbable that Tokio is prepared to make some concession in order to evade direct defiance of Powers who lately have manifested a hardening of opinion on the Manchuria issue. The report of the Committee of Nineteen will be widely approved as just and well-considered but it is not made clear how the League intends to carry out its recommendations. It will be no difficult matter to withhold recognition of Manchukuo, but it is unlikely that any League pressure will persuade Japan to withdraw her troops from Manchuria. In fact, the Report, while in itself a masterly-compiled document, advances the issue little further than did the Lytton Report, on which its recommendations are founded. American opinion, which of late has been extremely pessimistic, inclines to the view that the Report offers a new path to conciliation.

Some perturbation has been aroused locally by the report that an economic blockade of China ports is contemplated at Tokio while fears have been expressed that Hong Kong may be bombed. There is little likelihood of an attack on the Colony, but in the eventuality of a blockade Hong Kong would suffer through proximity to Canton. However, there is reason to hope that Japan will scrupulously avoid taking extreme measures, and the new possibility of conciliation being effected at Geneva indicates that a settlement may yet be reached. Matters have now reached a stage where a definite decision is called for and the events of the next few days will decide the issue.

Dancing Academies In Hong Kong.

LITTLE GROUND exists at present for apprehension regarding the conduct of the Colony's cabarets and dancing academies but any move which would ensure direct and effective Police supervision would be welcomed. Mr. Braga's questions at the Legislative Council meeting revealed that few regulations exist for the control of dancing academies and that the authorities possess a rather remote control. It was indicated to Mr. Braga that suitable regulations will probably be framed which will enable Police to prevent any abuse of the present privileges. Care should be taken, however, that the regulations are not made too rigid as suppression may be attended by undesirable consequences. There is not much night life in Hong Kong and dancing is a relaxation and entertainment which is a recognised part of modern life. As long as steps are taken to guarantee the good conduct of the dancing establishments no undue restrictions need be enforced.

WOMEN OVERTIME
MORE THAN MEN

Rough Blankets Produce
Bad Dreams.

SPECIALISTS' VIEWS.

London. When the alarm clock goes off in the morning it is the women who turn over and go to sleep again. They not only oversleep more than men do but they sleep longer, more lightly, and more peacefully.

A Harley-street specialist has been conducting research into the question of sleep and dreams and he concludes that men are the ones who have the bad dreams, which he thinks is due to the fact that men have more work and worry.

He declares that dreamless sleep is not essential for complete rest but that constant bad dreams are a sign of bad health. He also believes that seven hours is enough sleep for anyone over 13.

"A rough blanket or even a hot water-bottle can produce a really bad dream," he says. "Some of the most remarkable dreams of which I have heard resulted from hot water-bottles being placed at the soles of the feet."

"We dream at great speed—more in a minute than we can relate in an hour of hard talking. When we dream that we are being murdered or that something appalling is happening to us, we would find, if we awakened, that a rattling window or a banging door was responsible. Sometimes it is only the tickling of watch or clock."

If you cannot sleep the specialist suggests that you close your eyelids and then try to look towards the centre of your forehead. This is the position the eyes naturally adopt during sleep. When they are turned in like that the mind becomes blank.

It is a characteristic of great men, he says, to carry on with little sleep. Their sleep is refreshing because it is intense.

The man who "gets out of the wrong side of the bed," he explains, is the one who wakes up out of an intense sleep.

Theatre Wrecked When

Madrid. Because the management cut out an execution scene, Alicante cinema-goers who had paid to see a gangster film, rioted and wrecked the house.

Chairs were smashed, the drop-curtain torn to shreds, and all the films destroyed by the angry mob, who paid no heed to the manager's attempt to explain. Some of the rioters made off with the box-office receipts.

The cinema has only just been redecorated.—Reuter.

GIRL GUIDES ENTERTAIN.

VISIT OF MRS. GRUNDY
& DORA.

Mrs. Grundy's come to town,
Accompanied by Dora,
Upon our cabarets they frown,
What awfu' sins, begorra!

We must institute reforms
And save the youths from danger!
They are raising fearful storms
Of resentment and anger.

In an interview they said,
"Please do not think we are fussy,
Think of the price our youths have paid."

To every painted hussy!
They cannot do their work right
If at night they go a-dancin'
These sickly youths do look a fright.

Tho' like gay Othello they go prancing.

We must close these cabarets down,

And so-called academies.
In fact, we must purge the town
Of sinful epidemics!

They went to see the I.G.P.

And asked embarrassing questions,

Until the good man could not see
How he could hold confessions.

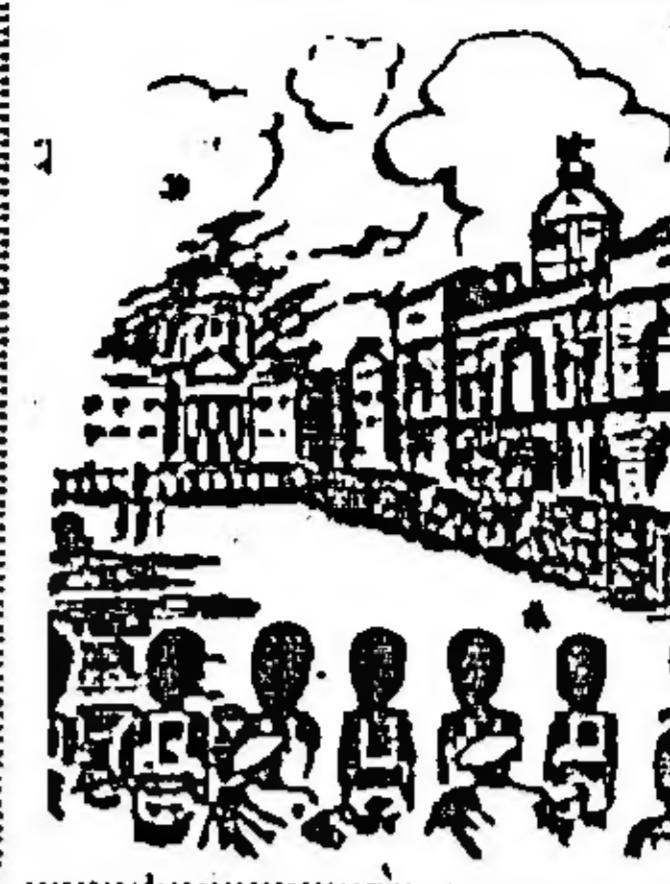

Mrs. Grundy's satisfied,

And so is Dame Dora.

"One must think of one's civic pride,
Indeed one must, begorra!"

Hong Kong, February 18, 1933.

Expensive Masques.

The beautiful Inner Temple Hall is not to be the scene this year—as it was last year and the year before—of a representation of the devotional play which imports scenes from the celebrated Coventry Mystery play.

The scope of the Office of Works is very wide—and it has been greatly enlarged by the authority it now exercises over ancient buildings and national monuments.

* * *

Young Headmasters.

Numerous passing references to the comparative youthfulness of the headmasters have been made.

With possibly two exceptions, the heads of all the schools described were "at the helm" there before their fortieth year, and one of the exceptions, Mr. H. H. Hardy, who recently transferred to Shrewsbury, was comfortably under that of Cheltenham College.

Repton's new headmaster, Mr. J. T. Christie, was only 32 when he was appointed, an age at which the great Arnold began his work at Rugby. But Repton has some tradition for youthfulness in this respect.

The present Archbishop of York became headmaster before he was 30, and he was succeeded by Mr. G. F. Fisher, now Bishop of Chester, who went there in 1914 when he was only 27.

Thus by a year Mr. Fisher beat Mr. L. M. Jacks, who was 28 when he went to Mill Hill, and probably set a post-war fashion in youthful "headships."

* * *

Model Exactitude.

After hiding behind a tarpaulin screen for about four months, and being greatly missed, the Law Courts clock over-looking Temple Bar has emerged in the glory of fresh paint.

To designate it the "Law Courts clock" is merely to distinguish it from 650 other clocks in the great building, none nearly so illustrious.

With a justified reputation for exactness, this particular clock is the envy of every public clock in the neighbourhood. Although not synchronised with Greenwich, its errors over long periods amount to mere fractions of seconds.

* * *

Grass in the Parks.

A new path in Kensington Gardens is something of an event, it runs diagonally from the Broad Walk to the Round Pond.

Since Mr. Lansbury took away all the fences the short cuts across the turf have become desperately bare.

In the present instance the authorities have only recognised a foul accomplishment.

But a stroll round the park as shows many other deplorable patches, and it is evident that if we are to have any grass left in the more frequented parts Mr.

Lansbury's banishment of the fences must be revoked.

This 10 inch Equatorial Refracting telescope is mounted so that it can be driven to follow movements of stars. A prism is also attached for giving spectra of stars.

Flowering Shrubs.

LITSEA citrifolia has finished flowering and Enkianthus quinqueflora is past its best. Raphiolepis indica is coming into bloom and soon the hillsides will be gay with its white and pink flowers. The commonest species of wild Rhododendron are coming into flower though bushes of one species, R. ferrugineum, have in places been out for weeks. The other species R. indicum is in full flower on the bank opposite the Helena May Institute.

Rhododendron championi with claret-colour flowers is now in bloom; there are two or three good bushes in the Botanic Gardens. Liquidambar formosana, the Far Eastern plane tree, is in that interesting stage when the swollen buds are bursting to disclose the delicate green foliage and the young inflorescences. This is the tree which, with its amber-brown, or red-brown leaves, in winter is so attractive; it is abundant in the Tai Po district. A third member of the HAMAMELIDACEAE is now in flower. This is Eurycoma oblongifolium; the tree is fairly widely distributed on Victoria Peak near Luard and other roads. The very curious small flowers are yellow and black—I can call to mind no other flowers which are more than half black. But it is by the scent of the flowers that the tree will be first noticed, the smell is strong and reminds me of orange blossom or perhaps still more of orange peel.

Violets.

Two of the local species are now in flower on the island and in the Territories, these are Viola patrinii and V. diffusa. In the first all leaves and flowers arise from one central crown, in the second there is a central rosette which produces a number of runners each ending in a small rosette. The leaf of V. patrinii is smooth and the petiole slightly winged, that of V. diffusa is hairy and prominently winged. The flowers differ considerably. The two upper petals and the basal lower one of V. patrinii are very pale violet with deep violet veins, the two lateral petals are pale violet with deep veins. In V. diffusa the four upper petals are pale mauve or violet, or white, the lowest petal is not winged but has a small tip and is smaller than the others, it has purple veins. The centre of the flower is definitely white.

Canton.

The 11th and 12th of February were spent at Canton on a visit to Lingnan University. The plants are not as advanced at Canton as they are at Hong Kong, for example on our recent visit to the Shum Chun Valley the fields of wheat were nearly ripe, ripe enough for us to extract the grains from the ears by rubbing, the wheat on the University Campus at Lingnan was still in flower. A Magnolia was in full bloom and its large white fragrant blossoms were most attractive. It was one of the deciduous species, M. nudiflora I believe.

Early on the Sunday morning a solitary blackbird was observed running about on a lawn, stopping at times to look around and to probe for insects. During the last fortnight a solitary blackbird has been seen in the University Compound in Hong Kong; they are very shy birds much more wary than the European blackbird they so closely resemble.

In the courtyard of a Chinese restaurant we were greatly intrigued by the behaviour of a white-eye. The bird was very tame and when released from its cage flew in turn to two or three of the other cages and hobnobbed with their occupants.

A Han mei resented its familiarity and pecked at it but the little bird did not mind and flew away. It settled on a Chinese who attempted to catch it but it flew round him and settled on him again much to the delight of the spectators to whom the bird was obviously an old friend. I have never seen so small a bird as ame as this one, it did not mind any of the rather rough but friendly attentions that were shown it by the Chinese; the bird is only a little bigger than a Tailor-bird and is about the size of a small Warbler. During the winter season in Hong Kong these birds congregate in large flocks of scores or perhaps hundreds of individuals.

The College of Agriculture Ling-nan University issues a "Price List of Seed and Nursery Stock" which will be of value to those who cultivate flowers, vegetables, flowering trees or fruit trees. The list is in Chinese but the English and Latin names are also included.

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE PRIZE DAY

Bishop Valtorta Urges More Keenness.

HIGH REPUTATION.

"If you are to accomplish your full duty in regard to the College you should take a keen interest in all its varied activities, intellectual, athletic and moral" declared the Rt. Rev. Mgr. Bishop H. Valtorta, D.D. in addressing the students of St. Joseph's College, Hong Kong, at the annual prize distribution, held in the College Hall yesterday morning. There was a large attendance.

The Bishop expressed the earnest hope that the College would continue to maintain its high reputation among the Colleges of the Far East. "But this" added his Lordship, "in a great measure depends on the student body comprising it."

Brother Matthias, Director of the College presided.

Reading the report, the Headmaster said:—

The average enrollment during the Scholastic year ending December 31, 1932, was 690, the average daily attendance 638, giving a percentage attendance of 95. We reduced our numbers by nearly a hundred on the preceding year. Boys are now admitted, only with difficulty, into the Remove and Upper Classes and we adhere strictly to the requirements of the Education Code regarding the age limit for Classes 7 and 8. Great efficiency in the class room calls for these restrictions in the matter of admissions.

Mr. Sutherland spent three days in examining the various classes. In his report, he says, "All written work was good and carefully corrected, but Composition in some classes showed too much similarity. More oral Composition should be taught. Reading is good but it still lacks expression. Colloquial has improved in the Chinese Divisions, but their pronunciation requires constant attention. Mathematics are well taught. The school is very efficient."

We presented 46 candidates for the Matriculation and/or the Senior Local, 25 passed: I wish to congratulate E. Hoffmann and A. Williams on securing distinctions in English. Of the 97 Junior candidates that sat for the examination 50 passed with a total of 32

RADIO SET CAUSES SUICIDE.

Invalid's Life Made "Unbearable."

New York. Because she found the sound of her neighbour's radio so unbearable, an invalid woman worked her wheelchair to a window of her apartment and plunged six storeys to her death.

She left a note addressed to the coroner explaining her suicide. It read: "I have been confined to my home for three years and to a wheelchair for 19 months.

"The incessant radio set playing has increased my nervousness and has made life unbearable."

Much sympathy for the unfortunate woman will be felt by many who have suffered from the American family radio. Often it is turned on in the morning and left running all day, like a bath tap, pouring out a deafening stream of jazz music, allegedly comic turns and "peppy" advertising patter.

50,000 Chevrolets Turned Out
In Two Months.

Longer Wheel Base Among
Important Changes

RADICALLY DIFFERENT

Detroit.

Prominent leaders in the automobile industry, commenting on the results of the recent election see the result as a long step in the direction of normalcy. They were free in expressing their individual opinions that improvement, and not disturbance, will follow. They believe, too, that the same condition would have resulted had President Hoover been successful at the polls. Before election day there was a tremendous wave of unrest and uncertainty, but with this now out of the way the road is believed cleared for an immediate upturn in the motor industry.

Closely following the election two of the giants of the industry announced their plans for 1933, and others will soon follow. Chevrolet, a General Motors unit, announced a programme in preparation for the year just ahead, which calls for the expenditure of $20,000,000 within the next two months. The schedule also calls for the production of 50,000 cars, radically different from current models.

Chevrolet's New Models
The new Chevrolets will have longer wheel base and include many important changes. Prices are not yet available, but it is officially stated that they will be "at a price which takes into account to-day's incomes."

It was intimated by President W. S. Knudsen that final announcement of price, combined with the introduction of all models, will silence rumours that the new line would be "stripped" models designed to meet the bare needs of transportation.

The new series will be the fifth annual model to employ a six-cylinder engine. The company has produced and sold more than 3,000,000 sixes.

The new Plymouth six, recently announced in the world's first international radio conference, is now on display in all Chrysler showrooms throughout the country. The car is new from bumper to bumper and, of course, takes place in the low price field where competition is increasing daily. The price range is between $395 and $495, which represents a price decrease of $60 under prices of the former four-cylinder line.

On 107-Inch Wheel Base.

The new six is mounted on a 107-inch wheel base chassis, bodies are of the safety steel type, floating power engine, developing 70 brake horsepower, whose mountings differ slightly in design but not in principle from the present models. The free-wheeling unit is of the cam and roller type developed by Chrysler Motors' engineers. Standard equipment includes 17-inch wire wheels with tires, with demountable wood wheels of the same size obtainable at no increase in cost.

Officials at the Nash plant in Kenosha, decline to comment on their 1933 plans, but indications are that the new line is about ready for announcement and production is well under way. It is rumoured that the prices to go with the cars will be considerably reduced, and correspond with present incomes.

No statement is forthcoming from the Ford company on plans next year. No official linking has been given on what the programme is in the face of the greatest competition in the low-price field that over developed. It is likely how-ing supply of fresh air at all times, eliminates drafts, and prevents the dangerous clouding of windows and windshields in wet or stormy weather.

The "greatest show on earth" of its kind, will be staged in Convention Hall in this city December 5 to 12, inclusive. The Motor and Equipment Manufacturers' Association and the National Standard Parts Association and more than 300 leading manufacturers are to display their products for the benefit of wholesalers who are coming to the Motor City from every corner of the United States and Canada.

Marked Improvement.
Members of the association are confident that a marked improvement in their particular lines of business, will begin not later than the first of the approaching new year. It is estimated that 10,000 buyers of parts and accessories will visit the show.

Buick Resumes Operations
Operations have resumed at the Flint factories of the Buick Motor Company, following a temporary shutdown due to changes made on bodies of 1933 models. The change has added a distinctive body feature to the new models.

All General Motors-made automobiles equipped with Fisher bodies hereafter, will have a new and revolutionary ventilation system for closed bodies. The new device provides constantly changing speeds the improvement runs as much as 100 per cent.

The adoption of the four-ring piston is a very important feature as it adds many thousands of miles to the life of the engine. The life of an engine is usually judged from the amount of oil consumed and, after fifteen to twenty thousand miles of hard driving it was necessary some time on previous models to replace the rings. With the new construction the life will be doubled.

Exhaust Improved.

Both the exhaust manifold and the muffler have been improved to eliminate breakage and reduce back pressure. The manifold has expansion and contraction, due to extreme temperature changes, will not cause breakage.

The muffler is of the resonance or straight-through type, which means that there is a 2 inch opening directly thru the muffler which reduces the back pressure from approximately five pounds to one and one-half pounds, increasing the power of the engine at high speeds. The muffler has silencing chambers which reduce exhaust noise to a minimum. This type of muffler also has a great deal longer life than the baffle type used on previous models.

The automatic heat control assures proper engine operation at all temperatures without attention from the driver. With the manual device formerly furnished on the instrument board, it was left to the driver to set the heat control to meet the various temperature conditions. This was often neglected at the expense of poor performance and economy.

Heat Control.

The heat is controlled by a valve operated by a thermostat, with outside air directed to the thermostat so that the mixture will always be kept at the proper temperature for best performance under all driving conditions. With the proper temperature regulation, it is possible to raise the compression of the engines several pounds adding further improvement in economy and performance.

ARGENTINE TRUCK DEMAND.

Washington.
An upward trend in truck sales during the first eight months of 1932 is reported by Argentine dealers, according to information just given out by the automotive division of the U.S. Department of State.

Sales of high-priced cars in this period held practically even with those in the same period of 1931. These sales, however, are reflected in lowered stocks and did not appreciably influence imports.

EXHAUST IMPROVED
IN NEW BUICK.

Pistons Coated With Metal Bearing.

THERMOSTAT HEAT CONTROL.

The basic construction of the New Buick's engine remains the same as in last year's line but for 1933 many important improvements have been added to increase its efficiency, life and control.

Pistons are plated with a light coating of bearing metal, eliminating the tiresome operation of breaking in a new car. With the coating of bearing metal on the pistons, new cars can be driven at general driving speeds without fear of scoring pistons. This does not mean, of course, that new car should be driven at the highest speeds for indefinite periods but they can be driven up to sixty miles per hour without damage to the engine.

Four rings are used on the new Buick's pistons instead of three—two compression rings and two oil control rings. The second oil control ring has been added below the piston pin. With this type of oil control the oil economy is very much improved; in fact, at high speeds the improvement runs as much as 100 per cent.

The adoption of the four-ring piston is a very important feature as it adds many thousands of miles to the life of the engine. The life of an engine is usually judged from the amount of oil consumed and, after fifteen to twenty thousand miles of hard driving it was necessary some time on previous models to replace the rings. With the new construction the life will be doubled.

"STYLE," as applied to the Packard, has always meant something more.

Associated with it, logically and distinctively, is the other important word, "enduring"—a Packard characteristic for a third of a century.

So gradually and correctly has Packard style evolved—like the slow unfolding of a beautiful flower—it has never been at the mercy of that capricious mood which too often alienates to-morrow's style from that of to-day.

THE SPORT OF KINGS! GREATEST RACING THRILL OF ALL TIMES!

"SWEEPSTAKES" IS A COMEDY THRILLER OF THE TURF.

Followers of the turf, or anyone interested in the thrilling Sport of Kings, will find "SWEEPSTAKES" a most entertaining film. The last Agua Caliente Handicap, a gallop of gold recognized as the richest and most spectacular stake race in the realm of horseflesh, provides one of the many exciting scenes in this comedy-drama. Night scenes of Tin Juana, the Mexican border resort, and additional racing events at the Tanforan race track near San Francisco were also filmed by Director Albert Rogell at their authentic locales. Eddie Quillan is seen as the jockey, while his leading lady, Marion Nixon, offers a pleasing interpretation of a cabaret singer who wins his heart. Other important players in the cast are James Gleason, who provides the comedy in his usual inimitable manner, and Lew Cody. Here is a film that is refreshingly different to anything we have seen in a long time. It marks a return to the unsophisticated, honest drama. Every variety of thrill is provided. It's a film for all the family to see.

More drama crammed into one hour than you'd see in a year at Belmont Park, Saratoga or Agua Caliente!

MARION NIXON SINGS IN "SWEEPSTAKES".

Charming Marion Nixon, who captured your hearts in "REBECCA OF SUNNYBROOK FARM", provides a new thrill in "SWEEPSTAKES" by singing on the screen for the first time. Her rendering of the theme song "How About Me Calling You My Sweetheart" is very well put over. She has a very pleasant singing voice, which used to entertain vaudeville audiences before she entered pictures. Miss Nixon came to the West Coast in a dance act on the Pantages Circuit. While appearing in Los Angeles, she became interested in pictures, and, on termination of her local stage engagement, she applied for atmosphere work in the studios. It was not long before she rose to the heights. Subsequently she was elected a Wampas Baby Star. Marion Nixon was specially picked for the role by Charles R. Rodgera, producer of "SWEEPSTAKES", after having tried and tested numerous other aspirants.

If there is no proper defence of the South-west by this time, the telegram said, it will be too late to prepare for anything when the enemy invades this section of the country. "The creation of this Committee is to protect the lives and property of the people in the South-west, and we students must support it," the message added. — Central Press.

Sino-Japanese Tariff Treaty May Go.

Canton, Yesterday.

Opposition is voiced against the renewal of the Sino-Japanese tariff treaty which was concluded in 1930 and will expire on May 6 this year, according to a cable dispatched yesterday by the Kuomintang office of the southern section of the Canton-Hankow Railway and addressed to the Central authorities.

The telegram is prompted by the report that Nanking is contemplating the negotiation of a new treaty with Japan, and objection against renewal is based on the Japanese invasion of China. This is to avoid Japanese pretences of friendship with China, while all the time she has concocted intrigues against this country, the message declared.

Regardless whether the treaty calls for equality between the parties or necessary revision to improve trade, the telegram urges Nanking not to renew it in view of the Japanese occupation of Manchuria and the devastation of Shanghai, not to mention the killing of thousands of innocent Chinese and the immense privation China has suffered.

A circular telegram to the foregoing effect is sent to the public bodies throughout the country. — Central Press.

FIRE IN CENTRAL DISTRICT.

Chinese Woman Injured.

Shortly after 11.30 p.m. last night, a fire broke out at 43, Tung Street, which is situated in a thickly populated area in the Central district.

The ground floor was occupied by a Chinese palanquin's establishment, while the upper two floors are dwellings.

The entire dwelling was damaged by fire and it is believed an elderly Chinese woman was injured. She was removed to hospital.

The Fire Brigade extinguished the flames within half-an-hour. Chinese Boy Scouts in uniform assisted the firemen, while members of the St. John Ambulance Brigade were also ready at hand.
